1. Beginning about the middle of January 1953, travel within East Germany is to be limited to the area of the respective Bezirke. The aged and feeble, the politically unreliable, and the unemployed will not be permitted to travel outside the Bezirk where they live. Workers, however, and those considered politically reliable will be able to travel in any Bezirk adjacent to that in which they reside.
2. Members of the SED will not be restricted, but may travel throughout the territory of the East German state.
